

The 13th University Scholars Leadership Symposium

The 13th University Scholars Leadership Symposium (USLS) in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, from August 5 to 8, 2025, is now open for applications.

Since its inception, USLS has empowered over 10,000 young leaders from 100+ countries, many of whom have gone on to launch humanitarian projects, lead social enterprises, and contribute to the United Nations and international NGOs. This is a golden opportunity to gain the knowledge, skills, and network to become an influential force for good.

Why Attend USLS 2025?

- ☒ Exclusive Learning Experience – Engage with world-renowned humanitarian leaders, social entrepreneurs, and UN officials who are shaping global policies and solutions.
- ☒ Experiential Learning – Take part in Kindness Day, where you'll step out of the conference room and work directly with marginalized communities, turning insights into real action.
- ☒ Global Networking – Build connections with like-minded changemakers from diverse backgrounds, forming a powerful network of future leaders.
- ☒ Career Development – Develop critical leadership, advocacy, and crisis response skills that set you apart in your future career.
- ☒ High-Level Recognition – USLS 2025 is co-partnered with the Government of Malaysia, adding prestige and credibility to your leadership journey.

At USLS, you won't just listen—you'll act, engage, and transform. This is more than a symposium; it's a launchpad for your leadership journey in humanitarianism, social impact, and sustainable development.

Recognition
